Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: Let Me Tell You a Story.

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you have a funny story?
- What happened?

Can Do Statements

- I can use appropriate sentence stress.
- I can say simple sentences.
- I can identify key information in a short audio.

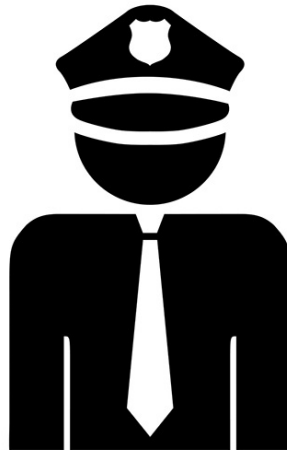

Let's Explore!

Sally and Vanessa video chat. Sally has a spooky story to share!

* "Spooky" means strange and frightening.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Hey Vanessa. Did I tell you about my tour of the Kremlin?
Vanessa: Not really, apart from a ghost story.
Sally: Well, I have a story to tell you!
Vanessa: I'm listening.
Sally: I talked to the tour guide while we had morning tea in the palace.
Vanessa: And?
Sally: He used to work as a security guard there.
Vanessa: That's pretty cool. I bet he's got a few stories.
Sally: He was locking up late at night when suddenly he heard footsteps.
Vanessa: Scary! Who was it?
Sally: In the shadows, a menacing figure stood in the doorway.
Vanessa: How terrifying! I would be out of there so fast!
Sally: He said that he dropped his keys and was paralyzed with fear.
Vanessa: What happened?
Sally: Eventually, the dark figure slowly dragged itself down the corridor.
Vanessa: Does he know what or who it was?
Sally: Later, his supervisor said that Tsar Ivan the Terrible haunts the Bell Tower.
Vanessa: I would never go back to work!

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Sentence Stress

Using stress in the pronunciation of sentences gives English its rhythm or "beat".

Word stress emphasizes one syllable inside a word.

Sentence stress focuses on certain words inside a sentence.

There are two basic types of words in most sentences:

Content Words

- Content words are the key words of a sentence. They provide the meaning of the sentence.

Structure Words

- Structure words are not as important as content words. They are small words that you use to make the sentence correct.

Examples:

- I would never go back to work!
- I bet he's got a few stories.
- How terrifying!
